CONNOR NEUVILLE

Connor has been a member of competitive swim teams since the age of 5. Over the years he competed at many state level swim meets, most notably with 4 consecutive WIAA state swim meet appearances in high school. As someone who spent their swimming career as a distance freestyler, Connor has transitioned to training for open water swims, competing in the Big Swell 5K in lake Michigan for it's inaugural year. He got his start coaching the Cedarburg Sharks, a summertime recreational swim team devoted to teaching participants the basics of competitive swimming. After 3 summers as a coach he left the sharks for college, where he continued swimming as a member of the Nebraska masters swimming association. In 2016, Connor returned to the world of coaching, running the introduction to swim team program at Little Strokes Swim Academy in Deforest, Wisconsin until his move to the twin cities this past summer. Working as a Chemist during the day, Connor is excited to get back in the pool and work with the JCC swim team.

Connor has his Bachelors of Science in Chemistry from Creighton university, and lives in Minneapolis with his dog. When he's not working, he enjoys exploring Minnesota's state parks, training for races, and binge watching TV shows on Netflix.
